Direct OEM Relationship

As the original designer and manufacturer of your engine, no one is better qualified than Turbomeca to be your maintenance partner. In addition to superior knowledge, we have a global network of resources ready to support you when and where the need arises. We maintain your engine to the latest configuration, all while providing the highest level of safety.

Technical Assistance

Downtime means loss of availability and loss of revenue. Our highly skilled team of technical representatives and engineers are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to keep you flying. Exceptional support is available in the field and just a phone call away.

Residual Value Protection

Your engine is an investment and you understand the need to protect it. By providing operators a virtual zero-time engine, SBH® actually increases the residual value of your aircraft. Direct OEM coverage further enhances the value of your asset. Financial institutions recognize the benefits of strong engine protection and often require coverage before financing a used aircraft.

SUPPORT BY THE HOUR

Flexibility

You understand the financial needs of your operation better than anyone else. That's why Turbomeca offers you a comprehensive list of user friendly options to create tailored packages that meet your unique financial and operational needs.

Budgeting

SBH[®] is a highly effective budgeting tool that provides both predictability and flexibility in managing your engine operating costs. SBH[®] also provides peace of mind – you will know what each engine flight hour will cost on an hour-by-hour basis with no guesswork or surprises. Whether you want to cover the unexpected, scheduled, or both, we have tailor-made programs to meet your needs.

Partnership

The SBH[®] program is more than a service – it's a partnership. As you "Pay as You Fly," Turbomeca stands with you, ready to meet all of your engine support and operational needs. We understand the demands of the competitive market, and understand what is at stake. We provide solutions to protect your investment and to give you peace of mind.

WE KEEP YOU FLYING

Our team of 6,000 specialists worldwide focus their energy and expertise on a common goal: providing your helicopter missions with the highest levels of safety and reliability. Through innovation, the design of new engines and the deployment of proximity services worldwide, Turbomeca strives to earn the satisfaction of every single customer.
